CENTER FOR CORPORATE LEARNING

About the Center for Corporate Learning

Southwestern College Professional Studies embraces partnerships with businesses and organizations who understand the value of creating a viable, sustainable and profitable enterprise. The Center for Corporate Learning offers customized, solutions-based training and talent development services.

Building Blocks to Success

Knowing where to start can be a challenge. The Center for Corporate Learning (CCL) offers customized training that builds on current knowledge, skills and abilities. It moves organizations forward by designing customized training at the basic, intermediate and advanced levels.

The Center for Corporate Learning also provides preparatory courses for industry certification exams. In addition, professionals can earn certificates, bachelor's or master's degrees through Southwestern College.

Customized Training Services

In this dynamic and evolving business climate, businesses must be prepared to meet competitive challenges. The Center for Corporate Learning can customize training and talent development to meet the strategic and specific needs of an organization.

Leadership Development and Coaching

Talent development is more than learning a new idea or concept. It often requires helping those who aspire to elevate and achieve to become successful. Leadership development and coaching offers a different dimension to increasing value to an organization. The Center for Corporate Learning has experienced leadership coaches available to assist an organization's team members in reaching their personal and professional best.

Certification Preparation

The distinguishment of being certified in a particular area speaks volumes about the commitment to becoming more knowledgeable in a specific subject. We offer a variety of professional development preparation courses in various formats to help build future experts in their fields such as:

- Lean Six Sigma
- Project Management Professional
- Contract Acquisition and Management
- PHR® / SPHR®
