COURSE SYLLABUS

I. Course Catalog Description

This course explores the role of accounting as the primary language used in practice to record, report, and interpret business transactions. It enables learners to analyze and prepare financial statements for a variety of organizations. Learners will apply the various steps in the accounting cycle, as well as use accounting systems and subsidiary ledgers (manual and computerized) to collect, classify, summarize, and report business transactions. Learners will also study the ways in which Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) apply to real business situations and how current and how to report long-term assets, current liability, and owner's equity. Learners will apply the principles of accounting to a variety of real-life business situations with additional focus on stocks and dividends. Learners will focus on external users of accounting information and their dependence on reliable and relevant information for decision-making, as well as legal and regulatory constraints for best practice. Finally, learners will study internal controls, with an emphasis on the responsibility of accountants and reporting financial information in an ethical manner, especially as relating to and affecting the external user. Prerequisite: BSAD395.

II. Required and Supplementary Instructional Materials

All required and supplementary materials are included in the Bb course.

III. Course Delivery

There are two forms of course delivery Ground and Online:

Ground courses, or those that meet face-to-face on a weekly basis, also have an online component, which means some of the course content is delivered online. Southwestern College utilizes the Blackboard (Bb) learning management system.

Online courses typically contain a blend of synchronous (real-time) and asynchronous (not real-time) material. Depending on the course, you may be required at times to interact "live," which might mean attending a scheduled Collaborate session. You may also be required to view or listen to a lecture or other video on a specific date and time. Of course, if there are circumstances that prohibit you from logging in to a scheduled synchronous activity, an alternate assignment will be provided. Please refer to the Course at a Glance section which will note any synchronous activities.

IV. Learning Outcomes

Learning outcomes describe the knowledge, skills, values, and attitudes that learners gain as the result of a particular learning experience. Southwestern College Professional Studies has learning outcomes specific to each course and each undergraduate and graduate program of study, as well as institution-wide outcomes related to the mission and vision of the college. Outcomes can help learners and instructors focus on the big picture of the learning experience and can help inform potential employers about a graduate's knowledge and skills.

Upon successfully completing this course, the learner will be able to:

1. Identify the role of accounting in business, as it relates to documenting transactions in various types of accounts.
2. Combine knowledge of the accounting cycle and accounting systems to collect, classify, summarize, and report business transactions.
3. Describe, analyze, and illustrate financial transactions and financial statements for both service and merchandizing organizations.

4. Identify and apply the basic characteristics of Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) to real business situations, with a specific focus on assets, liability, and owner's equity.
5. Describe the principles of accounting for proprietorships, limited liability companies, and corporations, as well as for effective management of stocks and dividends.
6. Demonstrate how legal and regulatory best practice principles apply to various external users of accounting.
7. Explain the role of accounting standards and ethics in accounting, especially as they relate to internal controls.

At the end of the course, learners may vary in their ability to achieve these outcomes. You are more likely to achieve these outcomes only if you attend class and/or online activities as required by the syllabus, complete the requirements for all assignments to the best of your ability, participate actively in class activities and group work as directed, and study diligently for exams.
